"Getting Started* . . ." is a series of programs that will be held at the Clyde Public Library from mid-January through the end of March. The Library has asked area artists, hobbyists and craftspeople to demonstrate their work and talk about what is needed to get started with their art or craft. So far, the Library has over ten programs planned, from getting started knitting to getting started collecting postcards. A brochure listing all programs is available at the Library, and a schedule is also available online at clydelibrary.org. Registration is required for all programs – just call the Library at 419-547-7174.

Our first Cookbook Club* meets January 6 at 12:30 p.m. and boy, are we excited! To start, participants will be bringing in a prepared recipe and their favorite cookbook. We'll taste, discuss the merits of the cookbooks, and make plans for our 'discussions' for the rest of the season. We'll have around 20-30 "healthy" cookbooks for members to select for February's tasting/discussion. Please register by stopping by the lobby desk or by calling 419-547-7174. Participants must have a Library Card.

Laptop Meet-Up* now includes Tablets! Another change: the meet-up is only at 1 p.m. the second Tuesday of the month. Please register by stopping by the lobby desk or by calling 419-547-7174. Need help right away? See if staff is available to help you at any time – we specialize in helping you download ebooks and audiobooks to your device, be it tablet or smart phone or ipod!

Kids

Weekly story time sessions are for preschoolers 2½ - 5 years old. The 30-minute sessions include stories, fingerplays, music, art, movement, and language activities. The Storied Life of A. J. Fikry by Gabrielle Zevin

In this sweet, uplifting homage to bookstores, Zevin perfectly captures the joy of connecting people and books. A. J. Fikry, the cantankerous owner of

Island Books, is despondent after losing his beloved wife and witnessing the ever-declining number of sales at his small, quirky bookstore. In short order, he loses all patience with the new Knightly Press sales rep, his prized rare edition of Tamerlane is stolen, and someone leaves a baby at his store. That baby immediately steals A. J.'s heart and unleashes a dramatic transformation. Suddenly, the picture-book section is overflowing with new titles, and the bookstore becomes home to a burgeoning number of book clubs. With business on the uptick and love in his heart, A. J. finds himself becoming an essential new part of his longtime community, going so far as to woo the aforementioned sales rep (who loves drinking Queequeg cocktails at the Pequod Restaurant). Filled with interesting characters, a deep knowledge of bookselling, wonderful critiques of classic titles, and very funny depictions of book clubs and author events, this will prove irresistible to book lovers everywhere. --Booklist

...Zevin's novel is easy to love: it is quick reading and sweet, full of wonderful details, literary references, and fun dialog. Yet under the surface the tale is far more oblique and subtle in its construction and heft. Each chapter begins with a note about a short story, and those comments become more resonant as the narrative develops, until, at the end, readers come to realize that they have been caught in the clever snare of the short form themselves, but one, thankfully, that finds a way to continue. --Library Journal

Staff Favorite from Michele Wood

When asked to write about my favorite thing, many different "favorites" went through my mind: songs, books, places, books, food, books, patrons, did I mention books? Although all the above are what I could consider favorites, I guess my top favorite of favorites is – yep, books.

Books entertain, they can take you away better than Calgon, they get into your mind and feed your imagination. I saw a saying recently that I really liked – “Don't you wish you could unread a favorite book just to be able to pick it up and read it for the first time?” I have many, many favorite books. Books that have been made into movies. Movies just cannot do books justice. The movie might try to follow the books, but it just isn't what you imagined when you were reading the book. Hence, the movie is always a big disappointment!

I have a great job; I get to look at the books before the patrons do. I love the children's picture books. Some are funny, some are very touching, and sometimes the titles just make me laugh. But I have to look at them, because the title or art work catches my eye. Two new books in our collection have no words, but are wonderful, great books for parent and child to make up their own story and create a closer bond. The books are “The Farmer and the Clown” by Marla Frazee and “Fox's Garden” by Princess Camcam. These beautifully illustrated books help create a story in your mind, you and your child will be able to make up wonderful stories.

So, whether you make up a story or read a story – just remember to READ. Books and your imagination are a terrible thing to waste!
